

Cement

The Cement industry is sometimes considered the building block of the cement industry. From abrasive requirements of mining and crushing of raw materials (including limestone and clay) to the elevated temperature requirements for the heat treatment process, American Alloy Steel stocks both the abrasion resistant steel grades (AR 400, AR 450, AR500) along with grades for elevated temperature applications (SA 204)